Dear Colonel Boyd,

Enclosed are a couple things of interest: the Washington Post article on decision making that Andy sent; also, a few pages from Hayek's The Fatal Conceit. Andy recommended the Hayek book to me because he thought it might be useful for Rethinking War and Defense Analysis (which it will be), and because he viewed as flatly the best book he'd read in a decade. You should find it interesting and useful as well--see in particular Hayek's comments on competition on pages 19 and 26.
