Dear Military Reform Caucus Member:

Every other month the United States Air Force publishes the Air University Review. To the Air Force's great credit, this publication is not a journal for approved dogma but, instead, is a forum for considerable diversity in point of view. The latest issue of this publication contains three articles of particular interest and which we believe merit your own attention.

The authors of these three articles are a current Chairman of the Military Reform Caucus, Congressman Denny Smith; a past Caucus Chairman, Senator Gary Hart; and a Senate staffer, Mr. William Lind, who has become well known for his informed advocacy of military reform. Each of these articles is extremely informative and speaks to fundamental defense issues: the roots of military reform, the need for it and the JCS controversy.

Copies of these articles are enclosed. We recommend each of them to you and believe you will find them pertinent to our ongoing work in Congress.
