CITATION:

For exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service as Director, Lejeune Leadership Institute, Education Command from July 2019 to July 2022. During this period, Colonel Ocloo consistently performed his demanding duties in an exemplary and highly professional manner. As the Director of the Lejeune Leadership Institute, he was the lead advocate for Marine Leader Development, echoing the time-tested leadership principles based upon our legacy as stated in our Corps' foundational documents, Warfighting, Leading Marines, and Sustaining the Transformation. He was responsible for the planning and execution of seven iterations of Cornerstone, the Commandant's Combined Commandership Course. His leadership and direction ensured over 1,200 officers and senior enlisted Marines were well prepared to embark on their most challenging and important command assignments. Colonel Ocloo extolled the virtues of the six functional areas of Marine Leader Development when addressing audiences across the Marine Corps, and the benefits of coaching, mentoring, and leading Marines in preparation for their assumption of greater roles and responsibilities. Colonel Ocloo's superior performance of duties culminated his 31 years of honorable and dedicated military service. Colonel Ocloo's sterling leadership, keen judgment, and inspiring dedication to duty reflected great credit on him and were in keeping with the highest traditions of the Marine Corps and the United States Naval Service.
