

"Seeing Through the Fog: Transitional Governments in Libya and Elsewhere"

Dr. Jon B. Alterman

Center for Strategic and International Studies

This is the first lecture in a series being hosted by Middle East Studies at Marine Corps University entitled "Orienting Our Sights on the Future: the Opportunities and Challenges of the Arab Revolts".

Jon B. Alterman is director and senior fellow of the Middle East Program at CSIS. Prior to joining CSIS, he served as a member of the Policy Planning Staff at the U.S. Department of State and as a special assistant to the Assistant Secretary of State for Near Eastern Affairs. He is a member of the Chief of Naval Operations Executive Panel and served as an expert adviser to the Iraq Study Group. In addition to his policy work, he teaches Middle Eastern studies at the Johns Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies and the George Washington University. Before entering government, he was a scholar at the U.S. Institute of Peace and at the Washington Institute for Near East Policy. From 1993 to 1997, Dr. Alterman was an award-winning teacher at Harvard University, where he received his Ph.D. in history. He also worked as a legislative aide to Senator Daniel P. Moynihan (D-NY), responsible for foreign policy and defense. Dr. Alterman has lectured in more than 25 countries on subjects related to the Middle East and US policy toward the region. He is the author or coauthor of four books on the Middle East and the editor of two more. His opinion pieces have appeared in numerous major publications. He is on the Board of Advisory Editors of the Middle East Journal, is a member of the Editorial Advisory Board of Arab Media and Society, and is a former international affairs fellow at the Council on Foreign Relations, where he is now a life member. Dr. Alterman received his A.B. from Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs.
