

"Winter or Spring: Islamists, the Military, and Post-Revolution Politics in Egypt "

Mr. David Schenker

The Washington Institute for Near East Policy

This is the sixth lecture in the series being hosted by Middle East Studies at Marine Corps University entitled "Orienting Our Sights on the Future: the Opportunities and Challenges of the Arab Revolts ."

David Schenker is the Aufzien fellow and director of the Program on Arab Politics at The Washington Institute for Near East Policy. Previously, he served in the Office of the Secretary of Defense as the Levant country director. In that capacity, he was responsible for advising the secretary and other senior Pentagon leadership on the military and political affairs of Syria, Lebanon, Jordan, and the Palestinian territories. He was awarded the Office of the Secretary of Defense Medal for Exceptional Civilian Service in 2005. Before joining the U.S. Government , Mr. Schenker was a fellow at the Washington Institute and a project coordinator for a Bethesda-based contractor of large, centrally-funded USAID projects in Egypt and Jordan. Mr. Schenker is author of two books: Dancing with Saddam (2003) and Palestinian Democracy and Governance: An Appraisal of the Legislative Council (2001). He wrote a chapter on U.S.-Lebanese relations published in Lebanon: Liberation, Conflict, and Crisis (Palgrave, 2009). More recently, he authored Egypt's Enduring Challenges (2011), a monograph focusing on post-Mubarak Egypt. Mr. Schenker's writings on Arab affairs have also appeared in a number of prominent scholarly journals and newspapers, including The Wall Street Journal, The Los Angeles Times, The New Republic, and The Weekly Standard. He has an M.A. in modern Middle Eastern history from the University of Michigan, a Certificate from the Center for Arabic Study Abroad (CASA) at American University in Cairo, and a B.A. in political science and Middle East Studies from University of Vermont.

Thursday, 29 March 2012, 1330-1500

Gray Research Center, Main Auditorium

2040 Broadway St , MCB Quantico

For more information about the MES AY 2011-12 Lecture Series, or to RSVP, please contact Adam C Seitz, Senior Associate for Middle East Studies at MCU, at (703) 432-5260 or seitzac@grc.usmcm.edu.