

"The Politics of National Reconciliation in Afghanistan"

Professor Robert Crews
Stanford University

This is the ninth lecture in a series being hosted by the Middle East Studies at Marine Corps University entitled "A Multidisciplinary Approach to AfPak Region and Its People".

Dr. Crews is an Associate Professor of History and, as of September 1, 2010, the Director of the Center for Russian and Eurasian Studies at Stanford University, where he teaches courses on the Russian Empire, Central Asia, the Caucasus, Caspian Sea, Afghanistan, and Islam.

Robert Crews was named by the Carnegie Corporation of New York as one of the 2009 Carnegie Scholars selected for influential ideas and enhancing public discourse about Islam. A Princeton PhD, he is the author of several books and articles on these topics, including "For Prophet and Tsar: Islam and Empire in Russia and Central Asia" (Harvard University Press, 2006) and co-editor, with Amin Tarzi, of "The Taliban and the Crisis of Modern Afghanistan" (Harvard University Press, 2008).
