

A New Program at Marine Corps University to Recognize PME Student Papers and Get Their Ideas Out Front

Marine Corps University has a new program to recognize outstanding PME student papers and advance their ideas into academic and defense community debate. The Breckinridge Papers: Selected Studies from the Marine Corps University showcases Marine Corps War College, School of Advanced Warfighting, Command and Staff College, and School of Expeditionary Warfare student writing, and builds upon a strong commitment to creativity and critical thinking in PME. The series honors Lieutenant General James C. Breckinridge, who presided over the rich period of study and innovation in the 1930s which saw the evolution of the amphibious warfare techniques so crucial to World War II. Today, as then, the ability to confront difficult and complex security problems, and sharing of ideas and critical thinking, improves both the individual author and the Service.

John W. Gordon, Ph.D., Professor of National Security Affairs, Command and Staff College, serves as Editor-in-Chief, working with an editorial board made up of representatives from MCU's component colleges and schools. His contact info: 703 784 6863; john.gordon@usmcu.edu